Statewide

Annual Renewal of Revocable Permits on the Islands of Hawaii, Maui, Molokai, Kauai and Oahu

BACKGROUND:

On October 23, 2009, under agenda item D-9, the Board approved, as amended, the continuation of the revocable permits listed in Exhibit A, on a month-to-month basis for another one-year period up to December 31, 2010, except for permits that are in arrears of rental payment for more than 60 days and/or have been approved for forfeiture by a separate Board action. With the amended Board Action, the Board also approved no change in the rents for permits under the Commercial, Industrial or Baseyard/Storage category, to reflect the downturn in the economy and resulting drop in values and rents.

Previously, on April 22, 2005, the Land Board, under agenda item D-17, approved methodologies to review rents of revocable permits for future years. The Land Board was presented with a variety of alternative methodologies by which to review the revocable permits statewide. In summary, Method 1 involved sampling at least 10% of each type of RP on each island. Method 2 involved conducting individual appraisals, if necessary, of each permit. Method 3 considered the use of the Consumer Price Index to apply adjustments to the rent. Method 4 involved interviews and research. Method 5 considered a periodic scheduled review based on the permit type or use. Staff then evaluated each methodology, as shown below from an excerpt from the Board submittal on April 22, 2005, agenda item D-17, and recommended the Board approve a blend of various methods specific to each appraisal type, for the reasons repeated below.

EVALUATION OF ALTERNATIVES

Staff believes Methods 1 and 2 are time consuming and should only be considered where necessary. These methods require substantial staff resources for research, analysis, and possibly travel. Currently, the Appraisal Section is comprised of one staff appraiser. Method 3, using the indices, would not address rural and outer island properties appropriately. The CPI and most other indices focus on large metropolitan areas and may not accurately reflect changes in land values.

Method 4 is both a feasible and reasonable alternative among those discussed above for reviewing rent for commercial, industrial and residential-type permits. Since these types of permits are most likely to be affected by changes in the real estate market and economy, this method adequately tracks recent trends in rents. Discussions with local real estate experts such as brokers, property managers, appraisers, and consultants is considered the best way to gain insight and knowledge of local real estate trends. Most major brokerages are fairly active in these real estate segments and would have the market data required for making fairly accurate adjustments to permit rents.

Method 5 makes the most sense for the review of agricultural, pasture, and landscaping-type permits. Because these types of permit rents appear to be relatively stable and less influenced by market fluctuations, staff feels a predetermined schedule of review based on the nature of these permits, in conjunction with Methods 3 and/or Method 4, is appropriate. This would allow staff to dedicate resources to other appraisal needs such as new dispositions and lease reopenings. Since most long-term ground leases contain step-ups or reopenings every ten years, staff recommends that access/utility, parking, community and government, landscaping and recreation permits similarly should be reviewed every 10 years. Past history has shown that agriculture and pasture rents have not been very volatile. Farm price of beef, which has been relatively stable, is more of an influence on pasture rents. Therefore, staff feels periodic review every five years is appropriate for agriculture and pasture permits. Staff last reviewed agriculture and pasture permits last year for renewal for 2010. The next review for these permits is scheduled for 2015 renewal.

Fee simple residential values have recently stabilized after a couple of years of depreciation due to the recession. The leasehold market has remained relatively stable. Discussions with appraisers and real estate brokers have indicated that with the influx of fee home and condo construction planned in the next few years, market participants would still look favorably upon a fee purchase before considering leasehold property. Residential RP's are considered leasehold because the tenants occupy state land. Therefore, staff feels periodic reviews every five years for residential permits is appropriate. Staff last reviewed residential permits last year for renewal for 2010. The next review for these permits is scheduled for 2015 renewal.

Proposed Methodology

The methodologies summarized below were approved by the Land Board on April 22, 2005, under agenda item D-17, in reviewing RP rents:

Permit Type	Methodology	Reason	Next Scheduled Review
Access/utility easements, Parking	Methods 4 and 5 – Review RP rents once every 10 years, utilizing market interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Permit rents stable.	1/1/2015
Agricultural and Pasture	Methods 4 and 5 - Review RP rents once every 5 years, utilizing market interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Permit rents fairly stable. Cost/benefit ratio justifies.	1/1/2015
Baseyard/Storage; Commercial; Industrial	Methods 3 and 4 – Review RP rents each year based on a review of market indices, interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Detailed, annual market research will ensure rents will reflect market.	Annually
Community; Government	Methods 4 and 5 – Review RP rents once every 10 years, utilizing market interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Permit rents stable.	1/1/2015
Landscaping; Recreational	Methods 4 and 5 – Review RP rents once every 10 years, utilizing market interviews and research to arrive at	Permit rents stable. Cost/benefit ratio justifies.	1/1/2015 percentage adjustments, if any.

Residential	Methods 3, 4 and 5 – Review RP rents every 5 years based on a review of market indices, interviews, and research to determine whether adjustments are warranted.	Timely adjustments to rents will track closely to market.	1/1/2015

The Staff Appraiser should have the discretion to account for specific circumstances and to make adjustments (which will be explained in the appraisals).

In conformance with the Board action on April 22, 2005, staff will focus on the current real estate market trends affecting the commercial and industrial revocable permits, statewide, which are reviewed annually. The other categories are to be reviewed per the recommended schedule as summarized above. Therefore, for the remaining permits not classified as commercial, industrial, or baseyard/storage, staff is recommending no changes to those permit rents at this time.

RESEARCH:

While conducting staff review of commercial and industrial permit rent, interviews with real estate professionals and research of available market studies were conducted. The trends of declining rents, increased vacancy and longer marketing time, which were apparent from last year's research, appear to be continuing. Market studies indicate there may be some stabilization in some areas compared to last year, but to call the current condition a recovery is overly optimistic. An assortment of real estate participants were surveyed to gain insight into market rent trends in the commercial and industrial sectors. Market reports on the industrial, office, and retail markets were also researched.

Industrial Sector

Market reports and local real estate appraisers have indicated the industrial market may have bottomed out. On Oahu, the vacancy rate fell to 4.14% after rising to 4.8% from the beginning of the year. The market experienced about 200,000 sq. ft. of positive absorption through the first half of 2010 according to a report by Colliers Monroe Friedlander. Prior to this year, the recession and resulting stagnation of the construction, distribution, production and manufacturing sectors had resulted in increased unemployment. The report seems to indicate that we may have some stabilization in the industrial sectors. Construction activity at some long stalled projects have seen activity in recent months. In the first four months of the year, construction permit volume grew by 60%. The current statewide asking rent of $0.94 per sq. ft. reflects a slight decline from the $0.96 average from 2004. This is still below the peak of the market where vacancies were around 2% and rents were escalating, peaking in 2007 at around $1.31 per sq. ft. per month. The number of available listings have recently stabilized after three consecutive years of rising vacancy and listing counts. Colliers' consultants also report that planned industrial developments are currently on hold and recently completed industrial condominiums are not selling. Many industrial condo projects are attempting to lease in the interim as sales have stalled. Some large industrial projects such as Kapolei Business Park II are attempting to sell large lots and plans at West Kalaeloa Industrial Park's 100 acres are on hold until after the lender is consulted. Financing has become a major obstacle for many owner-users and investors. The credit crunch has also affected the number of land transactions over the past year as market participants find it difficult to secure financing.

Colliers reports industrial land values, which have been declining since 2008, are still continuing to trend downward. Large bulk land sales in the Ewa area have seen drastic price reductions.

Some investors who do not have the holding power to wait out the economy may be facing foreclosure, default or forced to sell at a loss.

The forecast is for possible stabilization and there are some signs of better conditions. However, some brokers indicate that there is still some caution by investors. The demand for warehouse space appears to remain soft at best and vacancy rates are predicted to hover around 4.0% to 4.5%. Experts contend that a full recovery may not occur until there is substantial job growth. Economic forecasts by the University of Hawaii indicate that a recovery may be in the works within the next couple of years and that the next boom in the cycle may be ten years hence. As reported last year, several projects have been deferred or cancelled and have not yet been revived. Until there is more prominent job growth and a revitalized construction industry, the industrial markets will continue to be somewhat in flux.

Reports from various professionals on the neighbor islands also indicate generally soft industrial markets due to the stagnant economy. Most of this is due to the economic engines that drive their economies like tourism, construction and contraction in the business sector. A Hilo-based appraiser has indicated vacancies continue at a relatively stable rate due to the lack of new inventory that is coming on line. There is no new construction of industrial product planned. Industrial rents in the Hilo area have declined by about 20% to 25% from the peak of the market in 2006. Average rents have declined from around $0.75 or $0.85 per sq. ft. to about $0.60 per sq. ft. on a gross or modified gross basis. Sales and leasing remain slow, making it hard to predict any trends. Some tenants on leased space indicate poor business in Hilo. Overall, the Big Island is reporting sluggish activity in the industrial sectors.

An appraiser based on Maui indicates industrial space rents continue to trend downward from the peak of around 2007 but there is evidence of stabilization in mid-year 2010. Furthermore, lack of financing has negatively affected land sales resulting in lower industrial land values. Some recent inventory of commercial and light industrial business parks and subdivisions that have added some inventory also contribute to keeping land values depressed.

A Kauai appraiser has reported that the recovery will take a while. Business volume has declined and the only sector where he sees stability involves federal stimulus projects and related construction. He indicates private enterprise remains slow with industrial rents still declining. Vacancy rates are fairly stable due to tenants moving to different projects to get the best deal, resulting in a zero sum gain in occupancy. Landlords have to offer discounts in rent, incentives and extended terms to attract and maintain tenants.

Research indicates industrial rents may be generally stabilizing but vacancy rates are still higher than the market peak of a few years ago. The first quarter of the year has shown some positive absorption in primary industrial areas. However, land values, especially bulk acreage in the Ewa area, have been hit hard and are experiencing drastic price adjustments. Though there are some signs of life in the industrial sector, brokers are not ready to call this a full blown recovery by any means. There are still some problem areas and until there is job growth and construction recovery, any investment will be scrutinized with caution. Therefore, staff proposes no change in rent for all permits related to industrial and baseyard/storage purposes.

Commercial Sector

According to various market reports such as those released by Colliers, the retail and office markets reflect some differing trends. The retail markets, as shown in some of the larger regional malls on Oahu, have reported growth in the past six months. Some high profile spaces have been filled recently which may skew the data somewhat. This past summer, the former Circuit City space was filled by national retailer Bed Bath & Beyond. As tourism begins to show signs of rebounding, shopping malls should reap benefits from the increased spending from visitors. Even government furloughs have had a positive affect on retailers. A Colliers consultant recently stated that some shops report higher foot traffic and sales volume during furlough days. Traffic appears to be heavier and malls appear to be more crowded during furloughs. While some smaller mom and pop shops may struggle, landlords are generally being more flexible as they try and retain occupancy. On the flip side, they may also review financials before granting rent reductions to make sure their struggles are valid. National retailers are using the opportunity to look for space for expansion while spaces or land become available at a more reasonable cost.

Though there are signs of resiliency by the retail sector, retail rents are generally below those levels during the boom period in the middle and later part of the decade. The vacancy rate is still at a relatively healthy 2.87%. Colliers indicates the first half of the year's data may be a spike but a possible anomaly and estimates vacancy rates will rise to 4% and rents decline by 5% to 8% in the near term.

A mid-year Colliers report indicates the office market continues to weaken. The Oahu market experienced negative absorption of 122,300 sq. ft. of space in the second quarter of this year alone, bringing the year-to-date net absorption to negative 209,850 sq. ft. The office sector vacancy has been in single digits for the last five years but stands at 11.39% as of mid-year 2010. At the same time, asking rents have remained relatively stable from last year. Average net rents have increased slightly from last year from $2.74 to $2.77 per sq. ft. per month on a gross basis.

The office market is feeling the effects of recent unemployment as the Honolulu market has experienced more than 167,000 sq. ft. of lost occupancy in the first half of the year. According to the Colliers' office report, this negative absorption continues a downward trend over the past four years. Contributing to this inventory is large amount of sublease space becoming available. Job losses are still occurring in certain sectors such as financial services, transportation, utilities and government. This is somewhat mitigated by some job growth in construction and hospitality.

The neighbor islands are reporting similar conditions. A Maui appraiser indicates increased office and retail vacancies on Maui are an indicator of a contraction in real estate and mortgage related businesses along with consumer spending. The vacancy rate is in the 20% to 30% range for all types of commercial space while rents have declined. Along with the slowing tourism and construction industries, more space is on the market with longer marketing times. Commercial land values are also reportedly declining as demand weakens.

The Big Island is also reporting a downturn with layoffs at some major resort hotels and other businesses. This is likely caused by a drop in visitor counts from decreased cruise ship business and airline arrivals. Sales of commercial properties are slowing and days on market are significantly longer, possibly up to a year. There is a significant increase in supply of properties for sale and lease in the commercial sector. An appraiser has indicated that resort-oriented retail properties are experiencing increased vacancy due to a reduction in cruise ship traffic and other drops in visitors counts.

On Kauai, commercial space rents are trending downward. A Kauai appraiser indicates that construction is down and overall business is sluggish. There is not much new commercial space being built so the vacancy rates are fairly stable as tenants move from one space to another seeking the best deal. He does indicate that the resort retail areas such as Coconut Plantation of Kapaa are reporting a 20% to 30% vacancy in their projects though there are reports of increased visitor traffic to the island. Retail and office landlords need to be flexible to retain tenants, sometimes extending lease terms and giving incentives to keep the space occupied.

Research indicates office rents are still relatively flat and increases are primarily from increased operating expense pass-through to tenants. The retail sector appears to maintain growth by positive absorption of vacant space. Some new projects recently completed appear to be absorbing new tenants, however some existing retail spaces are still visibly vacant. Rents are stable but operating expenses are increasing. The forecast is for some stabilization in the economy but a full recovery is still likely several years off. Similar to industrial and baseyard permits, staff proposes no change in rent for all permits related to commercial use.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Board approves:

- A. Approve the continuation of the Revocable Permits listed in Exhibit A on a month-to-month basis for another one-year period through December 31, 2011, except for permits that are in arrears of rental payment for more than 60 days and/or have been approved for forfeiture by a separate Board action. Permits in arrears of rental for 60 days or more and/or approved by the Board for forfeiture shall not be renewed.
- B. Approve no change in current monthly rent through December 31, 2011 for Revocable Permits as listed in Exhibit A, provided however, that the Land Board reserves the right at any time to review and reestablish new rental charges for any Revocable Permit to reflect market conditions or the fair market rental for the rights and privileges granted by such Revocable Permit.

Respectfully Submitted,

CYRUS CHEN, Appraisal Manager
